

I believe that Greedy-EFT is optimal because it always picks the best possible interval first. Since the intervals are sorted by finish time, there is no way to get a better solution.

This must be correct because if you pick something later, you waste time. So this algorithm is optimal for sure.